

Victorian Brasses

Look at the words listed below and choose the correct one to fill in each space.

Memorial _____ are pictures drawn in _____. They were used to remember people who had died a long time ago. They are found in _____, usually on the _____ but sometimes on the _____. The _____ were very interested in old churches and they wanted to _____ them. They also liked the memorial brasses they saw inside the churches and many of them wanted to be remembered in the same way. Their brasses were often similar to the old ones.

Some Victorian men, such as Sir Robert Wilson, liked to be shown wearing the _____ of a Medieval _____, with a _____ at their feet to show that they were _____ soldiers in battle. Dame Jemima, Sir Robert's wife, is dressed in old-fashioned clothes and her hair is covered with a _____ because she is a _____ lady. She has a _____ at her feet. These brass pictures can be found in _____ Abbey.

George Basevi was a famous Victorian _____. He is shown in his memorial holding the _____ of the Fitzwilliam Museum in Cambridge. He is standing under a canopy (archway) showing that he hoped to go to _____.

Victorians often had _____ families. Henry Kendall is shown with his four sons and three daughters and their dog _____. A picture of the family's _____ is shown on the shield.

copy	head-dress	brave
armour	churches	coat-of-arms
dog	metal	Bruce
walls	Victorians	large
lion	heaven	plans
floor	knight	Westminster
brasses	married	architect

